PARTICIPANT SPOTLIGHT

LISSETTE JOURDAIN

Lead Officer for the Support and Advocacy Team, Lissette joined P-CoC in the summer of 2020, supporting the organization's mission and values.

Ms. Jourdain is currently pursuing her doctoral studies in Higher Education Administration EdD. She holds a MA in Disabilities Studies and a BA in Social Work, both from The City University Of New York (CUNY). Ms. Jourdan has more than 20 years of experience working in higher education. Ms. Jourdain has provided guidance, advice, and motivation to minority students to pursue an education and career.

Ms. Jourdain believes that equity should be practiced daily at home with children and family members to cultivate its essence in society and among all cultural groups. P-CoC's mission supports Ms. Jourdain's values and aspirations to make a difference in today's society by educating younger generations to exercise and promote equity, inclusion, and justice.

A candid conversation aimed at understanding the history, and current predicament of persons of color engaging in an open discussion on practical ways to work towards a safe and fair society that equitably supports all. The conversation will surround gun violence, and heightened aggressive practices.

INDEPENDENCE AND RACE EQUALITY

Independence Day and Race Equality

"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness"

This is the unanimous declaration of the thirteen United States of America on July 4, 1776 in Congress. For 246 years, we continue to strive as a nation and as individuals to form a "more perfect union", where all people regardless of race, sex, creed or origin enjoy the same human rights and freedom.

July Fourth should not a day for patting ourselves on the back for achieving those ideals for a privileged few but be a day when we all renew our determination and commitment to strive for 'liberty and justice for all,'

Happy Independence Day!
