Participant Spotlight

Karina Villalona

Karina is a first generation American whose parents are from the Dominican Republic. Her culture is important and she incorporates it into her children's lives, an 18 yr old college freshman and twin daughters in 7th grade.

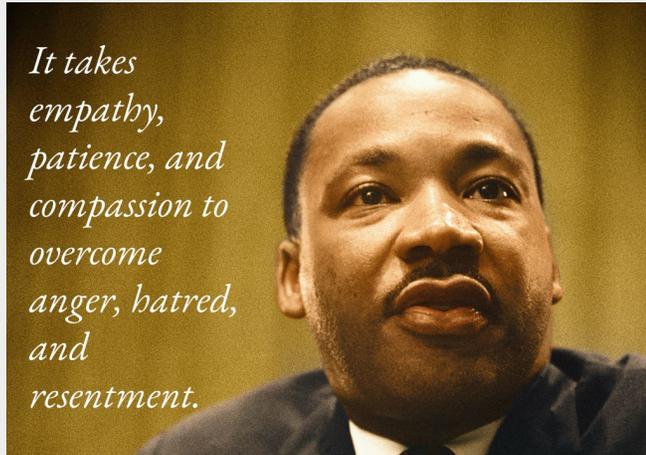

A teacher for 5 yrs, Karina has been passionate about education all her life. She subsequently became a bilingual school psychologist and has been working in that capacity for the past 19 years.

Karina has lived in Hastings since 2015, but LA is her very favorite place, having lived there for seven years. Bringing equity and awareness to issues of race is something she wanted to be a part of and joined P-CoC after chatting with Damaris Lois Lang. Karina has loved every minute of being a part of P-CoC and look forward to doing more with "this amazing group of people."

P-CoC is a group laser-focused on racial equity for persons of color, supporting ethnicity, cultural expression, fair treatment, and education for all.

Despite his struggles with severe depression, living his life under the constant threat of physical harm and assassination attempts, numerous arrests for peaceful civil disobedience, hostile threats, and accusations, Dr. King never wavered in his convictions, beliefs, objectives, and dedication to fighting racial inequality. For us at P-COC, Dr. King will continue serving as an inspiration to continue driving our mission forward to strengthen racial equality among the children we serve.
